

iPad Evening for Parents

Winslow Centre

Tuesday, February 17, 2015, 6:00 - 7:30pm

This event is for families who have purchased, or are considering purchasing an iPad, and are looking for ideas to help their child experience more success at school using technology.

iDevices such as the iPad, iPod Touch and iPhone can have a profound effect on student learning and can revolutionize their school experience, particularly for students with learning differences. iDevices can allow students to access information more easily, create products for sharing what they know, and to work collaboratively with others on projects. The most significant impact of an iDevice is the way that it fosters independence and confidence for students.

This workshop will provide an overview of the accessibility tools that are part of an iPad and why we find them so effective in schools. Students will demonstrate useful productivity apps and tools they use to complete class assignments with greater success.
