Supporting School Success:

Helping children to develop independent and effective approaches to learning

Featuring Dr. Nancy Perry, Professor, Human Development Learning and Culture, UBC
Thursday, March 14, 2013, 6:45 - 8:30 p.m.

at Kilmer Elementary

1575 Knappen Street, Port Coquitlam

$5 per couple/$3 per single

What is self-regulation? Why is it important for success in and beyond school? How does it develop and how can parents and teachers support it through their interactions with children. Not only will she address these questions, Dr. Nancy Perry will explain and distinguish between self-control and self-regulation. As well, Dr. Perry will describe characteristics of highly effective learners and strategies for supporting your child's success in school.
