

DIRECTIONS 2025: ACTION PLAN FOR LEARNING

Anmore Elementary 2022-2023

Intellectual Development

Goal: Numeracy - improve fluency, mental math and decomposing skills

Rationale:

Teacher feedback indicates that students struggle with learning new, more complex math when they have difficulties with their math fluency and mental math.

Planned Actions:

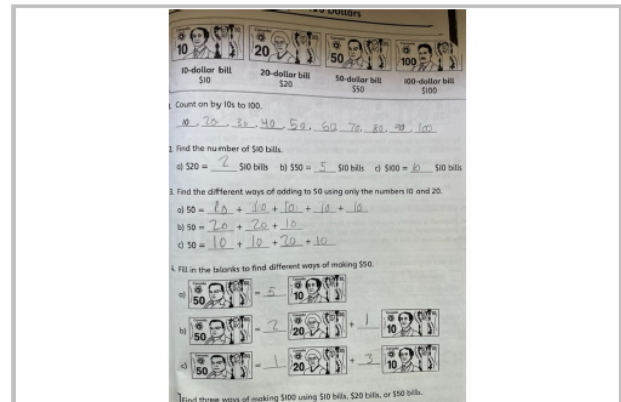

Work with district Numeracy Team to support during staff meetings and pro-d days. Focused activities during pro-d's: K-6 Collection Task Assessment: A How-To, share activities, plans, skills and strategies. Conduct a collection task in September and May to assess competencies and mindset.

Indicators of Success:

Students and teachers will be able to identify foundational multiplicative thinking at each grade level.
Students will identify quantities quickly and calculate more proficiently.
Compare collected task assessment data from Sept-May.
Report cards over a three term period will show school-wide improvements in numeracy proficiencies.
Students will self assess their competencies and attitude regarding Math.

School Community Engagement Process:

Encourage playing of math games at home.
Have student share games that they have learned at school with their families.
Information sent through our weekly newsletter, Anmore Update.
Teachers communicating with families through planners and/or Seasaw.
Share goals with the PAC.

DIRECTIONS 2025: ACTION PLAN FOR LEARNING

Human and Social Development

Area of focus:

Cultivate social-emotional well-being through personal and social awareness and responsibility, empathy and resilience, and provide opportunities for our students to practice skills on how to recognize and manage feelings and conflicts.

Planned Actions:

Use staff meetings and June Pro-D to develop common language (take care of ourselves, others and this place, develop school wide activities to foster it, and create a student reflection activity.

Establish a list of vulnerable students so we can create a strategy to support the learner - School-Based Resource Team, parent input.

Adapt students schedules to meet the needs of more vulnerable learners.

Invite parents to work with staff and students in classrooms.

Examine Student Learning Survey data.

Indicators of Success:

Teacher reporting improved problem solving strategies in class.

Students self-reflections.

Less office referrals for conflicts between students.

Less student conflict during unstructured times.

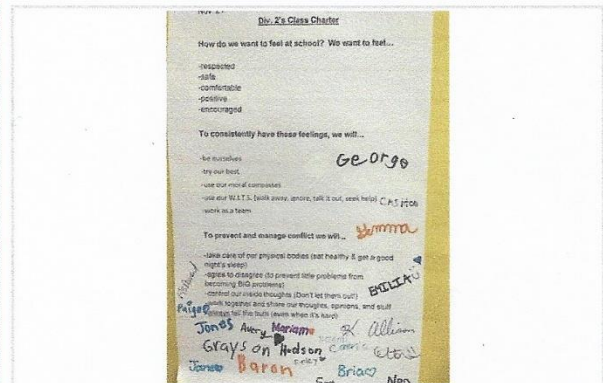

Examine data from Student Learning Service Surveys and MDI.

School Community Engagement Process:

Communication related to students' social emotional well-being and learning will be through report cards, planners, email, phone calls or in-person meetings. Class Charters will be explained to parents/guardians by school's weekly update.

Increase parent involvement to support the class/school community.

Consultation with Counselor and district Learning Services team will continue.

Reflection

The year-long process that has led to the development of our 2022-2023 goals included conversations with parents and the PAC, with Staff, district Numeracy staff, analyzing data from Student Learning Surveys, FSA and the MDI. Although our surveys and data from the FSA and MDI is relatively small as a sample, it did provide baseline data that was used in our conversations. What proved most meaningful is the observations and reflections of our staff who observe and assess our students daily. In fact, our PAC said they fully supported and trusted the professional judgment of our educators in regards to the examination of needs and of coming up with the goals that will further enhance students learning.

As a result, our three areas of focus are:

- 1) to improve Math fluency, mental math and decomposing skills
- 2) to cultivate social-emotional well-being through personal and social awareness and responsibility, empathy and resilience, and providing opportunities for our students to practice skills on how to recognize and manage feelings and conflict
- 3) to embed more Indigenous content/worldviews in all classes

We look forward to working with our community here at Anmore to improve our practice and enhance student learning.
