Happy Friday greetings, all,

With the arrival of June next week (!), schools can have feet in two years at the same time, as we move through the celebrations and adjournments of one year, and begin to set intentions and structures for the next. It is an exciting time as the fruits of the outgoing year ripen and the potential for the year ahead begins to take shape.

With a staff meeting and our school-based professional development day next week, we will be discussing the guidebook for our upcoming year with a roughed-in calendar, including our special events, visiting speakers, cultural celebrations, and some of themes and focal points for the different terms of study.

We are excited to be building on the work toward this year's Action Plan for Learning, with its focus on Social Emotional Learning, incorporating Indigenous Ways of Knowing into our classrooms, and the community-building successes of the Anmore Songs Project, and are looking forward to planning for next September and beyond with the reflections from this year fresh in our memories.

To begin the year, we have been discussing the integration of the First Peoples Principles of Learning into our opening week activities, where in addition to familiarizing ourselves with the Anmore credo to care for ourselves, others, and this place, we plan to highlight the holistic tenets of Indigenous knowledge and interconnectedness of learning, identity, community, and our relationship to place. From this foundation, we will look to incorporate an understanding of an ethos of respect, patience, and community into all that we do

Of course, we are not there yet! There is still the month of June, with all its activity, emotion, and celebration lying directly ahead. There are field trips, visits to the Middle School for our grade fives, the welcoming of our new kindergarten families, Sports Day, our Leaving Ceremony for those same grade fives, and (time and date TBD) a Community Sing up at Trails Coffee before all is said and done for the year.

As ever, thank you for all of your support and engagement with the school: in your own children's learning and development, but also the school direction, the community's needs, and everything it takes to make a village.

Enjoy these last few days of May,

Bryan Jackson

PRINCIPLES OF LEARNING

Learning ultimately supports the well-being of the self, the family, the community, the land, the spirits, and the ancestors.

Learning is holistic, reflexive, reflective, experiential, and relational (focused on connectedness, on reciprocal relationships, and a sense of place).

Learning involves recognizing the consequences of one's actions.

Learning involves generational roles and responsibilities.

Learning recognizes the role of indigenous knowledge.

Learning is embedded in memory, history, and story.

Learning involves patience and time.

Learning requires exploration of one's identity.

Learning involves recognizing that some knowledge is sacred and only shared with permission and/or in certain situations.
