Hello again, Anmore Families,

I was startled this afternoon to be filling in the two-week calendar for the Weekender and having to use the word December already. How did this happen?

Time flies when you are having fun, they say. And while there has been a lot of work in the new school year, there has also been no shortage of fun around the school, with much to come before the winter break.

Our Anmore Bears wrapped their volleyball season last week at the district Jamboree hosted at Gleneagle Secondary, with students showing off their skills and sportsmanship against opponents old and new. The grade fours and fives are also in the final stages of preparing for their Young Entrepreneurs Market, next Wednesday (Nov. 26th) in the school gym from 2pm-4pm, and the Kindergarten and Grade Ones classes will be visiting with the staff from the local Mossom Creek Hatchery next week. Students enrolled in the Rising Stars program have been rehearsing diligently through their lunchtimes in preparation for our preview show and upcoming Winter Concert, and the woods and playing fields continue to be hubs of enthusiasm and activity in every spare minute, no matter the weather.

We also began the Anmore Songs Project that I mentioned last week in each of the divisions, talking about our favourite songs, what they make us feel, whether they remind us of anyone/anywhere/anything specific, and what makes these songs so special. For the students' part, some common themes were that their favourite songs make them happy, remind them of memorable concerts, their favourite movies, summer holidays, or are songs their parents sing or played for them.

Some of the memorably cited songs this week I wanted to highlight, as they speak to some of your good fortune of having leapt right over kids' music into some older material, were: Darude's "Sandstorm," the Cranberries' "Zombie," Shaggy's "Boombastic," and "The Periodic Table Song," among others. I've also started to collect the songs surfacing through the project here, if you'd like to listen in as the list grows.

In the next few weeks, we will be approaching our first formal Learning Update (formally known as Report Cards), with two early dismissal days to support parent conferences and conversation about your children's progress this year. There will also be our Winter Concert, decoration-workshops, and all of the leadup to the holidays. It really all does happen so quickly...

Hoping you can pause and appreciate these moments as they pass. It is a special time to be at Anmore.

Happy Friday,

Bryan Jackson

Reminders

Absences: If your child will be away and you are letting the school know, please use the Absence Form (linked on the right) or email Anmore@sd43.bc.ca (instead of Ms. Weissig directly) as this ensures we get the message in the event Tahnia is away.

Winter Weather: As we approach the wintry times, and if the snow does begin falling, please use the School District Website (www.sd43.bc.ca) to stay up to date with school closure (or opening) information .

Free to a good home: There are two wooden pallets by the gym doors that are yours if you want them!
