

DAILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

Friday, May 19, 2023

Congratulations to all of the students who participated in the crib tournament. The tournament ended yesterday with Mo from division 5 placing second and Sara from division 9 placing first. The tournament will likely return next year!

Reader 1: Attention Hillcrest: Unfortunately, due to the strike by script writers in Hollywood, there is no hilarious D&D Club announcement today. (Pause) That is all.

Reader 2: Oh, come on. We can write our own funny D&D Club announcement that will have students laughing until they cry. After all, we are WAY funnier than Mr. Holbrook and his dad jokes. Here goes...What do you call a crying dinosaur?

Reader 1: Uh, I don't know. Jeeves? Englebert?

Reader 2: Wait, what?! No. A crying dinosaur is a TEAR - o - dactal. Get it? Tears, you know, from the crying.

Reader 1: Yo, what!? That joke is terrible...but you know what isn't terrible?

Reader 2: Sure! D&D Club. It's today after school, and it's awesome.

Reader 1: Let's hope those script writers sign a contract soon. I'm not sure I can do another week of this.