Nestor

Reflection

The Human and Social Development and Indigenous Learners and Indigenous Ways of Learning goals are areas that Nestor community has continued to work on over the past years. The shifts and growth that have taken place with these two areas have been significant and staff came together quite naturally to work towards common beliefs, teachings, and philosophies.

The Intellectual Development goal, specifically in the area of reading has yielded very exciting and engaging conversation among staff. This is an area where we know that each teacher is teaching literacy in their class; but, we are not as sure with "how" it is being taught. This does not have to do with the teaching of learning standards as much as it has to do with working towards a common goal of teaching reading through the creation and implementation of a K-5 continuum of skill building, reading practice, building reading stamina and assessing comprehension. It is these conversations which we are most excited about continuing throughout the school year.
