The Simon Fraser Society for Community Living Family & Individual Support Program and School District 43 Student Services are hosting this event. This will be a panel presentation including representatives from adult special education college programs, employment services and community and government agencies that provide supports, programs and services to youth with disabilities.

This session is intended to:

- help parents and students to think about life after high school
- give enough information to do pro-active, meaningful IEP planning and school programming that will move students towards their post-secondary goals
- tell parents what steps they need to be taking now and over the next couple of years if their son or daughter will need ongoing support throughout life

Informed, confident parents make the best advocates for their sons and daughters. Informed, confident young people make the best advocates for themselves. This is a great opportunity to check in, receive important information and ask questions in a friendly, informal environment.

Advance Registration is Required. Please RSVP to Rachel at rlenobel@sfscsl.org or call 604-528-3950 ext.312
