

Spring Break

Spring Break Arts and Music Camp

Back by popular demand! Arts and Music Camp is a safe space where children with Learning Disabilities and behavior challenges can explore their creativity, learn new social skills, and explore new ways of expressing themselves.

In the morning campers will use art and play to build social skills and self-esteem. Participants will explore tools from drawing and sketching to three dimensional works using paint, charcoal, textiles, collage, recycled materials and much more. Still life, imagination and the works of famous artists, music and nature are used to inspire and help children translate their own personal experience into unusual and imaginative projects.

In the afternoons participants will gain a greater awareness of their body and voice by experiencing the sounds and feel of different activities, songs and instruments. These activities are designed to teach children how to self-regulate by using movement strategies and how to read body language and connect with others.

Camp ends with a gallery talent showcase!
